A Short Story about Tiger Called Nick

There was a tiger cub named Nick who lived in the taiga. Nick was curious and clever. He had a brother and a sister. Nick was the youngest in the family.

One day the tiger cub went for a walk without telling anyone, neither his sister nor his brother, and his parents were out hunting. Nick came out of the house and saw a butterfly and ran after it. After a few minutes, the butterfly flew up and disappeared, and the tiger cub realized that he was lost and did not know the way home. Nick started calling for help, but no one came. The tiger cub started looking for the tracks he was following, but the tiger cub saw a pack of wolves, he ran away from this place. It was already dark, and the tiger cub decided to spend the night at the stump.

He couldn't sleep all night because he was cold. Towards morning he fell asleep. In the afternoon, the tiger cub got up and continued to look for a way home. But he found the tiger's trail, and the tiger cub followed it.

Soon he came to an empty house. There was no one there, so he decided to wait for those who live there. Waiting for an hour, two more hours, and finally, two tigers come with tiger cubs. They were happy when they saw the tiger cub alive and well. Mom fed him, and Dad never left him unattended again.

It was nice that he was found. What could happen if he didn't find the tracks.
