Muskrat

The muskrat is a small animal. It spends most of his life in the water. Their population came from North America, where the animal lives all over the mainland. The Muskrat was brought to Russia, South Asia and Europe, by man, where it is remarkably settled. Its weight reaches up to one and a half kg. The length of the body is 25-37cm., and the tail is 20-30cm. The body of the animal is oval with a short neck and a slightly elongated head. The muskrat has red-orange teeth. Under water this type of rodent can spend from 12 to 17 minutes. Thanks to this ability, they have an active underwater life. Muskrat is one of the most important lush fisheries of the species, gives a strong skin and edible meat.

Muskrat in the taiga

The muskrat lived in the lake with his family. Their family consisted of seven animals, mom, dad and 5 cubs. They were all very good friends with the other inhabitants of the lake. This lake had its own theater club. Everyone wanted to watch, but even more wanted to participate. Of course, not all the inhabitants were taken. There were a lot of those who did not participate in an performance at all. Well, everyone had already participated, except the muskrat family because they could not come up with the plot of the play. The muskrat family came with its own story, with its own invented fairy tale. The whole family really hoped that they would be accepted. But no one took them. They were upset and were returning home on the way to the house when they saw a circus tent. Then they had the idea to open their own theater club. No matter how many difficulties they had, they managed quite well. They really created their own theater сдги. And they already had a plot for the first performance. Everyone came to their first concert. Of course, the whole muskrat family was happy about this. By the time they found out that almost everyone wanted to enroll in this theater group, their joy was even greater. Since then, the two circles have joined together and started working together.
